Royal Baccarat.

By Cable and Associated Press.
LONDON, June 2.—The second day of the Baccarat trial begun this morning with a repetition of the scenes of yesterday.

Long before eleven o'clock, the hour fixed for opening court, all seats were filled, and many of those present brought their lunches so they would not be compelled to lose any part of the proceedings by being out to eat.
The plaintiff, Sir William Gordon Cumming, resumed the witness stand and pressed by cross-examination questions of Russell, the plaintiff said he took the present legal proceedings because the Baccarat scandal became a public matter of conversation and comment, and because it reached clubs to which he belonged, turf clubs and the Marlborough Club among others, and had he not taken action in the matter, his clubs would certainly have done so. Sir Charles then read two letters from General Williams. They were addressed to "Dear Bill" and referred to complications made by plaintiff's pledge of secrecy given when he signed the document agreeing never to play cards again, had been broken. In reply to defendants' counsel's questions, Sir William said he applied to Col. Stracey of Scotts Guards, in Jan. last, for permission to retire from the army on half pay. He added, Col. Stracey replied, the fact he, the plaintiff, had signed a document of a nature of the one already described could not be overlooked. A letter from General Williams to Cumming was then read and placed in evidence. It was addressed "My Dear Bill" and its contents were that nothing was left to him (plaintiff) but to place himself unreservedly in the hands of his commanding officer, Col. Stracey, as he had done. The letter also contained the following: "You are quite at liberty to tell Col. Stracey that you signed the document under extreme pressure and promise of secrecy." Witness here said: "I have never for a moment ceased to deny the accusation made against me." Later on Sir William denied he said to Berkeley Levett, "Could you not say that you were mistaken." A sensation was created at this point by Sir Charles Russell, who, after hearing this last denial from plaintiff, remarked gravely, fixing his eyes steady-ly upon the Baronet in the witness box: "Col. Sir William Gordon Cumming, you will have to be careful." A low murmur of comment passed over the people in court as Sir Charles Russell uttered these words. Plaintiff evidently noticed the effect they had, for almost immediately afterward, his manner seemed to lose some of its jaunty carelessness and he acknowledged that he had said "something of that sort" to Berkeley Levett. This caused another sensation and it seemed to be admitted. Counsel for defendants scored his first real decided advantage.

The Prince of Wales was called to the witness box. The Prince gave his testimony in a clear voice and with unruffled brow. In substance, the Prince said: "I have known plaintiff for twenty years and have been his friend for the past ten years. He visited my house several times. Our intimacy continued unimpaired until last September when I observed something suspicious in plaintiff's plea at Tranby Croft. I was first informed of the reports current in regard to Sir William by Lord Coventry."

Continuing the Prince said the sad event of the charges brought against Sir William broke up at the party at Tranby Croft. He, the Prince, sealed the document up, put it in his pocket and sent it to his secretary, who was not aware of the nature of its contents; the latter, said the Prince, remained in a safe place until sent for in connection with the present proceedings. The document inside the packet, the Prince explained, was the statement of three gentlemen and two ladies, Mr. and Mrs. Lyett Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson and Mr.

Berkeley Levett. The Prince then said: "I did not see any of the five persons in question until after Sir William had an interview with me and denied the charge brought against him. When I heard the gentleman's story several days afterwards Lord Coventry and General Williams prepared a statement of what had taken place and handed it to me." Cross-examined by Russell, the Prince of Wales was asked, "Do you recollect whether, in addition to the three gentlemen referred to also Lord Edward Somerset and Captain Somerset at Tranby Croft?" The Prince replied, "I believe I did." "To whom certain statements were made by the other three gentlemen," asked Sir Charles.

"Yes," replied the Prince.
"Had you also been informed that two ladies whom you did not see at the time she, had alleged they witnessed cheating?"

"I was not."
"In reference to this statement," continued Sir Charles, "could you charge your memory as to whether any of the three gentlemen said anything about withdrawing a portion of the stakes, and Sir William systematically played a larger stake on the table when he won than was ordinarily placed there?"

In answer to this question the Prince said, "I don't recollect any such statement made."

Sir Charles next question was, "was the memorandum a suggestion of yours or of any other in which you acquiesced?" In reply the Prince said: "The suggestion did not come from me. I acquiesced in the suggestion made by Lord Coventry. I was greatly distressed at the occurrence. I was present at an interview with Sir William in the presence of General Williams and Lord Coventry. I think he (Sir William) asked me whether I believed the statement about him, but I don't recollect what I replied."

"Do you recollect any reference to the Duke of Cambridge?"

"Decidedly," replied the Prince.

"Did you desire under the circumstances to act as leniently as possible out of regard for Sir William Gordon Cumming?"

"Have you met Sir William since the occurrence at Tranby Croft?" asked Sir Charles.

"No," answered the Prince.

"And have you intimated you cannot meet him?"

"I would be more agreeable not to do so."

At this stage a jurymen caused a sensation by rising in his place and asking in a loud voice, "Are the jury to understand you were banking on these two occasions and saw nothing of the alleged malpractices?"

The Prince hesitated for a moment as if undecided whether he ought or ought not to reply. Finally he said with a loud smile: "It is very easy for bankers when dealing cards, especially in company with friends in a country house. You don't suppose for a moment any one will play unfairly."

The jury asked: "What was your opinion at the time the charges were made against the plaintiff?"

To this the Prince suavely replied:
"The charges made against him were so unanimous that I had not any other course open to me than to believe them."

The Prince's last answer caused another flutter of excitement, followed by whispered comment. The juror, apparently, had succeeded in bringing out squarely and beyond any possible doubt the fact that the Prince, in view of the evidence which had been placed before him at Tranby Croft by ladies and gentlemen who had played baccarat with Sir William Cumming on September 8th and 9th, had become convinced of plaintiff's guilt. When the murmurs of astonishment which greeted the juror's questions and the Prince's answers had subsided, Sir Edward Clark, seeing he must do everything possible to regain the ground which seemed to have been lost by the plaintiff in the estimation of the jurymen, said, addressing the prince:
"I take it, your highness' answer to the first question put by the juror was substantially that you had not seen any malpractices during the games of baccarat played at Tranby Croft last September."

The Prince assented to this and his examination was concluded. He gave his evidence in a halting and hesitating manner and seemed to be relieved when his examination was over. With the testimony of to-day the case of plaintiff closed and the court adjourned until to-morrow.

Bold Brigands.

By Cable and Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 2.—The capture by brigands yesterday of a number of passengers on the eastern express near Tcherossi aroused the Turkish government and decisive measures were taken to prevent a repetition of the crime. The governor of the province in which the outrage was perpetrated ordered a force to pursue and if possible capture the brigands. In order, however, not to imperil the lives of persons now held or ransom by the robbers, the expedition will not start in pursuit until after the ransom money, $40,000, has been handed over to the brigands and the prisoners released.

that he knew absolutely nothing about the matter.

the National Press.

The paper adds: "Our secretary waits in his office to receive the service of a writ from Parnell."

all the banking institutions in the city.

By Associated Press.

OTTAWA, June 2.—The government has passed an order in council permitting the Three Rivers Meat and Export Company to import American cattle in bond to be slaughtered. The present regulation prohibits the importation of cattle from the United States into Canada on account of the threat of the British government that Canada cattle arriving in England would be scheduled the same as those arriving from the United States if the importation of American cattle into the Dominion is permitted.

Not To Be Finished Until Some Time in the Future.

President Sidney Dillon of the Union Pacific, with a large party of railroad officials, has been inspecting that railroad system and was in Salt Lake City on Saturday last, and the Tribune says: "When asked about western, and particularly extensions of the system in Utah, he said that owing to the tightness of the money market, it was impossible to borrow money wherewith to build extensions. He knew that the Pioche line had been graded, and regretted seeing it lying idle, but it cost money to build railroads. The report stated that W. S. Godbe of the Pioche Consolidated Mining and Milling Company was intending to see him relative to taking the matter in hand; and that it was hoped that such financial guarantees might be offered as would warrant the directory in raising money to resume tracklaying from Milford to Mr. Dillon thought that possibly some arrangements might be made whereby the stationers might purchase such an amount of securities as would provide means to build. But with money as tight as it is, he hardly expected there could be any suspension of railroad building during the current year. For the same reason so little had been spent on Garfield this season."

Fire Alarm.

The shrill whistles of several locomotives in the yard and the din of the fire bell this afternoon at 4:45 caused 5,000 or 6,000 people to leave their homes to see the engines and hose cars rushing through the streets at breakneck speed which nearly frightened the people to death. It turned out to be a little building back of Sessions' furniture store that has been an eye-sore to the neighborhood for a long time, but by the prompt action of two of Manning's firemen it was soon under control and no damage was done.

lowing delegates to the Grand Lodge,

John Wadde, John Tolson, James Ridge, G. W. McCabe, Edwin Phillips, Wm. Phipps, Chris Ziegler and

A NEW METAL

Found on the 1100 Level of the Holmes Mine.

The ore discovered in the deep workings of the Holmes mine at Candalaria, reference to which was made in the columns of the Gazette about two weeks ago, has been submitted to Professor Davidson, the government geologist, and he says it is Variscite, a hydrous phosphate of aluminum.
In color it resembles green stone or malachite, running from a light green in the center to a darker shade on the outside edges. The color is fixed, and the stone capable of a high polish.
Col. D. H. Jackson, Superintendent of the Holmes, says that the Variscite is foreign to the ledge. It will probably be utilized for ornaments and jewelry, being very pretty when polished and quite a novelty.

There is a specimen of the ore in possession of the GAZETTE local, and is highly prized because of its rarity.

Heavy Weights.

Governor Colcord and his staff were weighed and measured at Carson Saturday. They averaged 203 1/2 pounds in weight and 6 feet and 1-16 of an inch in height. In Lincoln's first call for 75,000 men to suppress the rebellion none but six-footers were accepted.

THE GAZETTE, in offering a cash prize of ten dollars for the best article on the "Advantages Washoe County Offers the Home-Seeker," and five dollars for the second best, written by any pupil attending school in the county, had two objects in view: The first was to encourage the young men and women of Reno to try their hand at newspaper work, and the second was to find out how much they knew about the county and its resources. It may be, however, that the talent to be developed in our schools is worth more than ten dollars a column, or it may be that the students are all rich and do not care to turn an honest dollar in that way. At all events, we have not received a single communication on the subject yet. As a further inducement to them, we will make the same offer to any pupil presenting the best article on the subject to be read at the closing exercises of any school in the county, but this offer does not debar any other student from competing for the prize.

Certainly nothing can be more beneficial to the students than a knowledge of their own county, and we should think the principals of the several schools throughout the county would be only too glad to have their students tell what they know about home affairs and induce them to display that knowledge to the best possible advantage. It would take the place of the vague and dreamy theories or speculative essays on the whiteness of the which generally read at the closing exercises and be of very great advantage to everyone who takes a hand at presenting the many advantages Washoe offers to idle capital.

If the people of this State would arouse themselves from the What-are-the-wild-waves-saying dream that seems to have taken possession of them and work together the "depression" that has overtaken us would soon be put aside and prosperity, in the fullest sense, would be our lot. The trouble is the people do not appreciate the advantages the State possesses. They had rather chase fickle fortune in other realms than try to turn something up at home. We spend a good deal of time talking about the booms in other and less favored localities, when if we would try and start one on our own account we would be much better off.

There are people right here in Reno that are constantly complaining of hard times and a scarcity of money who never did anything in their lives toward building up any industry, either by encouraging words or in any other way. That class are stones about the necks of the more prosperous and progressive and do more to keep a town down and back than the energetic and live men can do towards pushing it ahead. We believe that human nature is prone to look on the dark side of life, and these discontented, unhappy parasites are hanging to the garments of every town in the land pulling to pieces all that their more prosperous and opulent neighbors succeed in building up. Let any one come here with capital and brains and attempt to do anything with it, whether it is starting reduction works, irrigation works or manufacturing enterprises, and see how quick the sore-headed growler will show himself and begin to wonder how so-and-so came here to invest his money. He must be after office or is working a game to clinch the people, or he has come here to rob us of our rights, he will be heard to say, and if the individual succeeds in pushing his enterprises on to success in spite of the evil prognostications, they are the first to say, "Didn't I tell you so?" To all of such we will give this bit of advice "free, gratis, for nothing." Put aside your little jealous minds and let your wide-awake and progressive neighbor do your planning and you will be more successful, happier and better satisfied with yourself.

JOKE AGAINST JOKE.

An Incident of a Dry Goods Merchant's Farewell to the Road.

"Just before I left the road for good and all," began a dry goods merchant in the Merchants' club recently, says the New York Herald, "I had one comical experience that I shall never forget. 'There were several of us traveling together,' he continued. 'We had been skylarking all along the road, playing off pranks on one another and having a pretty good time generally. It was to be my farewell trip and the boys made a dead set at me for that reason. After awhile the novelty wore away and life became burdensome. 'I tried to call a halt, but it was no go. One fellow, finding that I was annoyed, persisted in his attempts to put up games on me, and he succeeded pretty well.' 'I said nothing for awhile, but resolved to get even if it took me the balance of my life. 'The boys separated at New Orleans,' added the speaker. 'Some of them were booked for Texas, while my practical-joking friend and I continued up the Mississippi valley. We reached Memphis early one morning by the Jackson route. We were driven immediately to the old Peabody house. 'I had stopped there half a hundred times before and had struck up a great friendship with Wiley, the second waiter. I knew the darky would do anything in the world for me. I had matured a scheme by which I proposed to retaliate on my tormentor. 'We were shown to our rooms to fix up a little for breakfast. I sent for Wiley and he came up to my room. I said to him: 'Wiley, I want you to wait on me myself while I am here. I'll tell you the reason. I know I can rely on you, and I'll pay you well for your trouble. I am going north with a friend of mine who has recently gone insane. He is not violent, but the doctors say that he ought not to eat too much. 'I want you to follow these instructions: No matter what he orders at meals, bring him nothing but toast and tea. He is so crazy that you can easily convince him that you have brought him what he called for. If he grows violent just pat him on the back of the head that will bring him around.' 'Wiley said he understood me. I gave him a couple of dollars and told him I would give him more before I left. 'My friend and I entered the breakfast-room together. Wiley had informed all the waiters that he was to serve a crazy man. They eyed us suspiciously. My friend thought it very strange, and asked me if I noticed anything peculiar about him. I told him he looked as usual, only that his hair was a little longer than he generally wore it. 'Wiley came for the order. I called for soft-boiled eggs, chops and bacon, a cup of coffee and a plate of wheat cakes. 'Oh, bring me the same,' said my companion. 'Hang it all,' he added, 'I never know what I want now. If I was home I could eat an ox.' 'Wiley caught the remark. It coincided with the impression that my words had left with him. He left to fill my order. Presently he returned, bringing me my breakfast nicely cooked and served, and a plate of toast and a cup of tea for my friend. 'The latter turned to the waiter and said: 'I guess you've made a mistake here, my friend. My order was the same as this gentleman's.' 'Yes, dat's so, cap'en,' said the waiter. 'Yo' order de same as de other gem'men, and I done brought it. Der's. Der's you' eggs and der's you' chops an' bacon, an' der's you' coffee. Pat's right, cap'en. You' breakfast is right afore yo'.' 'As he spoke the darky pointed out articles, some real and some imaginary, with his long, bony fingers. 'My friend looked at him in amazement. 'What do you mean, waiter, by staring there and telling me that? Are you crazy?' 'I done tell yo' exact truff, cap'en,' replied the waiter in his most persuasive manner. 'Yo' brekfuss is right afore yo', same as dat gem'men's precisely.' 'If you are not crazy yourself, do you take me to be? Or do you think I'm blind or drunk?' replied my companion hotly. 'Go back this instant,' he continued, 'and fill my order, or I will have you turned off. Go, I say.' He spoke with a rising inflection, which startled the waiter and caused every inmate of the room to glance in wonder at us. 'I caught the waiter's eye and nodded my head. He took it for the further instruction, and began to pat the back of the gentleman's head. This was too much for my friend. 'He leaped to his feet, uttering an oath and overreaching his chair at the same time. 'You black rascal,' he said, 'what do you mean by putting your nasty hands on me? I'll beat you within an inch of your life.' He made a move for Wiley. 'The latter dashed for the kitchen. The other waiters huddled in a corner. My friend thought better of his intention and turned to me to make a remark. I could hold back my mirth no longer. I laughed till I cried. I shouted and fairly yelled with delight. 'What are you laughing at?' asked the angry man. Then he saw through the whole affair. 'So this is some of your wit, is it? You may laugh and it may be a good joke, but by jove, I came near murdering that darky.' 'I say,' said he, after he had resumed his seat, 'suppose we quit joking on the rest of this trip. I believe we break with the honors in your favor, but I don't want to run such a chance of murdering a man or making such a fool of myself again.' 'THE emperor of Austria sent the German empress a diamond set which cost $15,000 as a gift in celebration of her infant's christening. L. FRIEDRICH WITT, the oldest composer of music in Germany, died recently in Kiel, where he was leader of the orchestra. Prof. August Kaselowski, the well-known historical painter, also died a few weeks ago in Berlin. NUMBER flutes have lately been found in a rock cellar in Egypt. Although very old, they are in perfect condition, and it is expected that they will give interesting evidence of the Egyptian musical scale. They have been taken to England.

I recognized in it an herb the Mexicans used to give us in the early 50's for bowel troubles. (I came to Cal. in 1858), and I knew it would help me and it has. For the first time in years I can sleep well and my system is regular. The old Mexican herbs in this remedy are a certain cure in constipation and bowel troubles." Ask for

A Pioneer's Experience With Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I am a pioneer in this county, having been here 30 years. Four years ago my little son Eli became blood-poisoned by impure virus in vaccination. His arm swelled terribly, causing great agony; physicians said the arm must be amputated, and even then his recovery would be doubtful. One day I read about a blood purifier, new to me, and was surprised to learn that it was prepared by C. I. Hood, with whom I used to go to school in Chelsea, Vt. I decided to have my boy try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was much gratified when it seemed to help him. He continued to grow better as we gave him the Sarsaparilla, and having used bottles is now entirely cured. As Hood's Sarsaparilla has accomplished such wonderful results, I recommend it all I possibly can." JESSE M. SLEEPER, Upper Lake, Lake Co., Cal.

The City Treasurer
Of Lowell, Mass., says: "The above is from my brother, whose signature I recognized. I am also glad to testify to the excellence of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and to say that C. I. Hood & Co. are considered one of the most reliable firms in New England." VAS B. SLEEPER, City Treasurer, Lowell, Mass.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence. Don't forget the dance at Glendale Saturday, June 6th.

Adolph Ball continues to hold his excellent trade in Welland beer, which has acquired a wide fame.

The overland express being reported six hours late this morning, the V & T did not hold its passenger train, but went out at the usual hour.

The meat market of Dixon & Bro. is enjoying a flourishing trade and growing constantly. The boys are deserving of patronage for they strive to please.

During the storm of ten days ago fifteen inches of snow fell at Hamilton. The White Pine News says Jake Schelberger came to Ely from his ranch in a sleigh.

There were some dressed sheep hanging in W. S. Bailey's market yesterday that weighed 80 pounds each. A leg of that mutton would last a family a week.

The milk of human kindness is a gift supreme; but our impetuous friends always wants the cream. Take him to Pinniger's soda fountain and give him cream soda.

Inyo county, Cal., contains the highest and lowest land in the United States. Mt. Whitney is the highest—15,000 feet. Death Valley, the lowest—120 feet below the level of the sea.

Dealers say the strawberry season is about over. The GAZETTE local thought it was hardly commenced, as he still wears his overcoat and from present indications will need it all summer.

Dusan Church is constantly adding new attractions to his Merchants' exchange, and it now wears a cheerful and attractive air, which the old Cooke's corner has not had for some time previous to Dusan's management.

"What makes you color your lemonade red?" asked the curious old gentleman of the circus merchant. "Great Scott," was the indignant response. "You don't expect us to make money on clear water alone, do you?"

That tired feeling, so subtle and yet so overpowering, is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which tones and strengthens the system and gives a good appetite. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla. 100 doses One Dollar.

It is true only in this peculiar medicine. The Palace bakery is enjoying a nice run of patronage, for the proprietor, Mr. Peterson, knows how to cater to the wants of patrons. Fruits and berries are received daily and ice cream and milk shake are always ready at call.

Miss E. G. Gibbs succeeded in getting her stock of goods all moved into the new store adjoining that of C. J. Brooks, yesterday. She has renovated, repainted and painted it nicely and will have a very attractive store when finished.

The "Commercial Class of '91," will give their dance next Friday evening, the 5th, instead of the 12th, as heretofore advertised. Fredrick and Barlow's full orchestra will furnish music. Tickets, $1.00, admitting gentlemen and ladies.

Colonel James Fitton, an old resident of White Pine county, died in Taylor last May morning at the ripe old age of nearly 75 years. The Colonel in his better days was a man of ability and good standing, both in this State and California.

Mrs. Brown (at Mrs. Smith's tea)—Oh, dear, that dreadful Miss Smith is singing. I wonder what started her. Tom Brown (aged seven)—I dropped a nickel down her back when she wasn't looking. Drop a nickel in the slot and get a good cigar at Marcus Fredricks.

The Next Attraction. The next attraction at the Opera House will be Geo. C. Staley in "A Royal Pass." Although Mr. Staley has never visited Reno previous to this season, he has established a reputation in other cities that entitles him to a respectful consideration. He is described as a handsome man, of great dramatic ability, especially in comedy which is his forte. He is a sweet singer and introduces some very beautiful songs and lullabies during the course of the play. "A Royal Pass," is highly interesting and amusing, is richly and picturesquely costumed and interpreted by a strong company.

The company will be here on June 9th, and a treat may be expected.

Backward Season. The rainy weather that has prevailed during the past three weeks has had its effect on the spring trade of the dry goods and clothing stores. It has been too cool for summer clothing and people are hanging on to their old winter garments.

Its Excellent Qualities. Commend to public approval the California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs. It is pleasing to the eye, and to the taste, and by gentle action on the kidneys, liver and bowels, it cleanses the system effectually, thereby promoting the health and comfort of all who use it.

A Guide for the Afflicted. The following letter will show the way to health to many a down hearted man and woman.

H. S. R. Mather, Moravia, Cayuga Co. N. Y., writes: "I have been afflicted for some years with liver complaint, accompanied with dyspepsia and prolonged constipation. I was almost in despair when I commenced using BRANDRETH'S PILLS. I took a course of them for a week—five or six pills every night. I found myself very much better, but to make everything all sure, continued to take one pill a night for over a month. I am now in a very fair state of health, and I know I shall continue so as long as I take one BRANDRETH'S PILL a night."

"Struck the Golden Mean" as a Blood Purifier. The Detroit Free Press says: "Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup, prepared by the Charles Wright Medicine Company, of this city, has struck the Golden Mean in the treatment of all blood diseases, and its success is an evidence that an honest, pure and valuable medicine, is not incapable of attracting the attention of every family. There seems to be but one opinion as to its merit as a family medicine."

This is the real secret of the success of this wonderful remedy. Its perfect and speedy action, in removing all impure and poisonous matter from blood. No home should be without it, as a thorough and effectual blood purifier for young and old. For sale by all druggists.

NEEDS OF THE PEOPLE. The following town bills were laid over:

S. W. Upson: Constable fees.....$254 20 John Douglas: Road work..... 14 00

R. Harrison: Road work..... 4 00 S. J. Hodgkinson: Medicine furnished indigent sick..... 4 75

The Commissioners claimed that the above bill was covered by the contract with county physicians.
